Daggers have been brandished and torches have been lit.
After the highly acclaimed Angel Of The Eastern Gate demo, Sijjin now descend upon the scene with their first full length album arcanelly entitled Sumerian Promises.
The record marks a 45 minutes long lesson in abyssal furiousness and ripping intensity straight out of the caverns of hell.

No rest for the wicked indeed!

The basque/german collaboration has proved extraordinary musicianship while recording all songs live as well as using full takes only.

No cuts, no edits, no bullshit.

Faithful towards the magic of the elder gods of Death Metal, Sijjin undoubtably have managed to bring life unto death, or otherwise set death alive.

Merely the instrumental passage Hunting The Lizard allows a moment to catch some breath while transporting the listener amongst the stone walls of an ancient desert temple.

With Sumerian Promises, Sijjin rise the flag of untamable, pitch-black and archaic Death Thrash Metal, rising from the shadows to embrace the unsuspectingly victim with sheer brutality.

Harken and behold!

Sumerian Promises shall unfold.
